the church. Seek the Son continues to help reach out a hand to these families and churches to insure God's love is real!

In the past few months Theresa has had the absolute honor of teaching students in the Masters of Art program for Children and Family Ministry. This journey remains a delight as these students understand how a disability is just a normal part of an abnormal world.

Theresa also presented her passion at the Moberg Lecture series hosted by Bethel University. Please check out this website for a copy of the audio <http://www.bethel.edu/special-events/moberg>. Reconciliation of the disabled in the Body of Christ represents a huge challenge, but one God is asking us to continue to work through.

On the personal side....our family is delighted to open our home to Jessica and Aliza Rose. The delight of watching our granddaughter grow is priceless. Nick is working hard on a short film to be shot in Pennsylvania. Chris is finishing up his last year of high school. Chris and Jessica are looking toward how the move to North Dakota will work. Amanda attends the Academy for the Blind. She loves being on the forensics and swimming team. She loves helping others and sharing her gift of sign language through music.

In the next few months Seek the Son will take time to go on a retreat and look at short and long term goals. We are incredibly excited for the many possibilities to help be "Jesus With Skin On". Please check out our website www.seektheson.org and learn about upcoming events. One of these events will consist of a study of the popular book "The Shack" by William Young. We continue to engage in fund raisers and April will see us hosting another online auction. Again check out our website or give us a call.

Finally, we wanted to share a few great ideas for individuals or churches to explore to reach disabled. These ideas surfaced from our blog and Theresa's students. One relates to respite care for families with special needs. This proves an excellent outreach. Many churches provide a four-hour time one evening a month where parents can drop off their child with special needs. These parents eventually understand the love a church provides and this magnifies Christ's love. This may also work with aging parents who need supervision.

Another ministry opportunity relates to a shopping ministry. One of the most frustrating weekly chores for a person with a disability is to shop. The finances are not the issue, but the needed help at the store. Please prayerfully consider if one of these options would work for your church. If you know of existing programs...please pass on the information for us to advertise on our website.

We give each and every one of you a special hug and blessing. Many of you we cannot see on a regular basis, but we covet your prayers and communications. Each one of you shapes us as individuals, as family members and as ministers of the Gospel. Thank you for journeying with us to share the saving power of Jesus Christ with the disabled.

Please consider in your prayers for the ministry, seeing where God is leading you in partnering with Seek the Son Ministries. We feel the power of your prayers in how God is working and using us as vessels to reach the community of the disabled with the Word of God and the Love of Christ.

There is a multitude of ways in which you can partner with Seek the Son: Visit our website and donate through PayPal; You may look at our crafts and purchase one of the many items we have; Use Goodsearch for your web search and designate Seek the Son as your charity of choice; Use Goodshop to shop online and again designate Seek the Son as your charity. We are still accepting ink cartridges and cell phones for recycling. You can send a check directly to the address below.

God has blessed us by allowing us to minister and touch many people with the love of Christ. The disabled need to feel that love and acceptance from God's people. Thank you for your continued prayers and support.

This Olympic illustration reminds us of the life of a disabled person. All around the world and especially here in America, prejudices still exist to oppress this people group. It is estimated there exists at least forty-five million disabled individuals. This group still fights for an even playing ground in many areas, especially
